Customer Reviews

I have used this in home visits and have found it to be extremely useful both for parents and for the therapist to elicit beginning speech sounds and imitation. It is fun, silly and the kids love it. Easy to use, easy to follow along with. I highly recommend it! Liz Balog, M.S., OTR/L Infants and Toddlers

As a speech pathologist I was expecting a little more creativity and instruction with this CD. I wish there had been more information on the musculature being exercised. The songs did not have substantial repetition to facilitate any type of motor control. I was sorry I purchased this item. Next time I'll look to ASHA for suggestions

I got this for my daughter who had some auditory processing deficits. She does not have auditory processing disorder which is the more serious disorder. Even having some listening deficits causes problems with language. I don't know if her deficits are due to ADHD or Tourette's Syndrome. She can be particular about the way things sound. She reacts if the sounds seem odd to her. She listened to this tape when she was younger and she liked the exercises. She repeated back what she heard. I myself thought the exercises were odd. Maybe the purpose is to be somewhat puzzling and draws children to want to repeat what they hear. My daughter did say, "I like that tape". She did not like tapes that drilled the math tables. They were confusing. I just assumed that the purpose of this tape may not be about being rigid, orderly, or linear.. My daughter reacts to some sensory things like the way something looks, feels, or sounds. She does like music and audiobooks. However, she will scream and won't listen if she does not like the sound of the singer or reader's voice. Another child with sensory issues may not like the sounds on this tape. I was surprised when my daughter did like it.
